

Classical Greek Assignment 5

- μανθάνετε! (Learn!)
- Review your notes!
- Read chapters 28–34 of Guerber's *Story of the Greeks.
- The following quotation is taken from the New Testament. It is translated "I am the bread of life." Remember that personal pronouns are often used for emphasis. The Greek word Ἐγώ, meaning "I" should be easy to remember, as the word in Latin is ego!

Ἐγώ εἰμι ὁ ἄρτος τῆς ζωῆς.

—John 6:35

- We will be having a test next week. The test will cover the material learned over the past four assignments. I will post the test next Wednesday and it must be scanned and returned by the following Friday evening so that I can grade it. You will need to know:
  - 1) the vocabulary
  - 2) the letters, letter combinations, and their sounds
  - 3) the quotations
  - 4) the grammar: the second declension (λόγος declension); the masculine article, the present indicative active of λέγω.
  - 5) information about Antisthenes, Euripides, Aeschylus, Sophocles, and the Battle of Marathon.
- Memorize the declension of the masculine article ("the" used for masculine nouns):

	Singular	Plural
Nominative	ὁ	οἱ
Accusative	τόν	τούς
Genitive	τοῦ	τῶν
Dative	τῷ	τοῖς

Translate the following from Greek to English.

1. λίθῳ
2. Ἄννα λέγει τῷ ὄχλῳ.

3. τοῦ κόσμου
4. ὁ ἄρτος τοῦ ἀνθρώπου
5. λόγοι νόμου
6. Μιχαήλ λέγει ὄχλω.
7. λαμβάνω τὸν λίθον.
8. Ὁ Λούκας, ὁ Μιχαήλ καὶ ὁ Δικαιοσύνη μανθάνουσιν.

English:

1. in a place, of a world
2. for a friend, laws of thrones
3. He takes a stone.
4. We have bread for a world.
5. You (all) speak words to crowds.
