

Blog Topics

As a journalist—or any kind of writer—you must consider your audience before you work on a piece. Your blog audience will be primarily homeschool families. With that in mind, you may want to consider the following topics:

- homeschool burnout
- does homeschooling get easier
- goals of homeschooling
- is homeschooling on the rise
- will the pandemic permanently affect the face of homeschooling
- valid and invalid reasons for homeschooling
- reasons why we should not homeschool
- the best models for homeschooling
- benefits of a hybrid model of homeschooling
- will everybody be homeschooling in the future
- Have homeschool parents lost their vision?
- one day in the life of a homeschool mom (humorous)

One of the best ways to get interesting perspectives for your piece is to interview homeschool families. Frame an outline of what your article will discuss before making appointments with a few families to discuss your particular issue.

