

Vice and Virtue Assignment 17

- Poetry Memorization: stanzas 1–4 of Alfred Tennyson’s “Crossing the Bar.” Remember to read and study the new Blog #14 and to review the old blogs.
- Complete Poetry and Poetics 17.
- Grammar and Punctuation Lesson 17
- Complete Chapter 17 in your Vice and Virtue Study Guide and the accompanying reading.
- Benjamin Franklin made a pun in his story about the fish. Did you like the puns? Do you remember them well enough to tell them to your family? Look below for more puns!

Long Range Assignment

- The book report will be due the third week of February.
- I will be announcing the date of the Poetry Bee soon! Remember to keep reviewing the poetry bee blogs!

More Puns

- * She had a photographic memory but never developed it.
- * Two antennas met on a roof, fell in love and got married. The ceremony wasn't much, but the reception was brilliant!
- * Show me a piano falling down a mineshaft and I'll show you A-flat minor.
- * To write with a broken pencil is pointless.
- * When a clock is hungry it goes back four seconds.
- * Every calendar's days are numbered.
- * I wondered why the baseball was getting bigger. Then it hit me.
- * I'm reading a book about anti-gravity. It's impossible to put down.
- * I couldn't quite remember how to throw a boomerang, but eventually it came back to me.
- * When William joined the army he disliked the phrase 'fire at will'.
- * I don't get people who stumble into mirrors. They need to watch themselves.
- * There was once a cross-eyed teacher who couldn't control his pupils.

Crossing the Bar

By Alfred Tennyson

- Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea,
- But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.
- Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell,
When I embark;
- For tho' from out our bourne of Time and Place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have cross'd the bar.